

The Jackson family recap

The Jacksons come from Britain but they live in Kirribilli, a small quiet town near Sydney in Australia. However, they used to live in Canberra, which is the capital of Australia. They chose to live in Kirribilli because they wanted to live outside the city centre. From their house, they have a fantastic view of Sydney's Opera House and the Botanic Gardens. It is easy to get to Sydney by ferry.

Shirley is the mother. She is 46. She works in a hospital. She goes out with her British friends on Friday evenings to talk about England. They sometimes go to the pub.

Tony is the father. He is 48.

Charlene is the daughter. She is 16. She really enjoys having a large garden full of palm trees and exotic plants. There are kookaburras that sing all day. She also likes watching the sailing boats. She likes going to the beach.

They have a kangaroo called Joey, who is 2.

On Sundays, they enjoy walking in the bush or in Hyde Park and go shopping at the Rocks or on Circular Quay. They also visit places like the Aquarium or Taronga Zoo.

They are a sports-minded family because they go jogging by the sea when the weather is nice.